

Division 14 APRIL NEWSLETTER

About Me

Hi everyone! I am really excited to see what this year be like! Another year has come by and new board members have been elected. I am Esther Nu, from Greenwood High School in Bowling Green, KY and I am the newly appointed Lieutenant Governor of Division 14. I love to help my community in any way that I possibly can. Some examples of how I help my community include translating, volunteering at church, hospitals, and different places. Everything I do for my community is about service. Being from an immigrant family and community, all I can do is serve them in the best way

I can, which is translate for them. It's the hardest thing to do for me but as I help, I also grow and that is what they need most; someone to speak for them. This year, I hope to be able to keep in touch with everyone of you, and I cannot wait to see what we can do to better serve our community!

DCON EXPERIENCE

Another event is DCON which is our district convention! At DCON, you you will be able to meet different people and it's a very wonderful experience. You will be in presentable clothes or business clothings most of the weekend. This year's DCON was my very first time, and the most wonderful thing from my experience was sharing rooms with people I didn't know. You spend a lot of your time with those you know all day,, but then you get in your room to see people you don't know. So, you make conversations with them to avoid awkwardness, which will lead to friendship. Until now, I am still chatting with my roommate from DCON. We all get scared at the thought of sharing rooms with people we don't know, and I was terrified. However, this is about coming out of your comfort zone and trying new things. In this case, one of those new things will be meeting new people and making new friends across Kentucky and Tennessee!
